Fayette Pastor's Son Drowned In Monongahela

Brownsville Youth One of Three Western Pennsylvania Drownings

The 13-year-old son of a Brownsville minister was one of the three teen-age boys drowned in separate accidents in Western Pennsylvania yesterday.

James Wilkes, son of the Rev. and Mrs. S. D. Wilkes, drowned in the Monongahela River at the West Side Beach in West Brownsville after suction from a diesel-powered boat pulled him and several others out into the water.

The other drowning victims were Joseph Topple, 17, of Greensburg, and Len Baumgartel, 15, of East Oakmont.

The body of Wilkes was taken from the river at 9:30 p. m. after a search which lasted about an hour. The Rev. Mr. Wilkes, who is pastor of Mt. Zion A.M.E. Church, prayed on the beach while firemen dragged the river for his son's body.

Others in Prayer

Seven other swimmers at the West Brownsville public beach were pulled out into the current of the river when the boat passed but were able to save themselves or were pulled from the water.

Those endangered were Mrs. Sara Vavases, school director in West Brownsville borough; her daughter, Vicki; Paul Straight and an uncle visiting from Cleveland, Ohio; Mrs. Matt Wasko, 210 Main St., West Brownsville, wife of a Brownsville High School track coach, her son, Byron, 11, and Frank Barry.

An outboard motor boat rushed to the scene and rescued Mrs. Vavases, Vicki and the Cleveland man. Straight, who attempted to save the others and was pulled beneath the surface, was taken into a rowboat sent from the Hillman barge.

The Wasko lad was saved by his mother, who with "almost superhuman strength" was able to come to safety and bring her son with her.

The disappearance of the Wilkes boy was not noticed because of the excitement, onlookers said.

'Can't Make It'

The boy did call to a companion, "I can't make it," and disappeared below the water. The companion, because of fright, didn't tell anyone about the accident until the Rev. Mr. Wilkes came to the beach to call his son for dinner.

When the father learned of the tragedy, he turned in an alarm.

Topple drowned in the Loyalhanna Creek at Kingston Dam on the Greensburg - Ligonier Rd., near Latrobe, Pa. Westmoreland County Coroner Stephen Yoney said the victim was swimming with his brother, James, 16.

Rescuers recovered Topple's body and applied artificial respiration in a futile attempt to revive him.

Baumgartel went down in the Allegheny River between Oakmont and Harmarville.

Insurance Policy Refunds Made In the State

HARRISBURG (UP) — State Insurance Commissioner Francis R. Smith said today his department's investigation of misclassification of private passenger automobile collision risks has resulted in refunds of premium overcharges to thousands of Pennsylvania policyholders.

Smith said the department, under Deputy Insurance Commissioner Bernard J. Kelley, was auditing the records of insurance companies which were ordered several months ago to make refunds.

Kelly said about $500,000 has been refunded but that he was "far from satisfied" with the manner in which some of the companies involved handled the refund program. He added most companies involved were either owned or controlled by finance companies.

Companies under investigation were identified as Calvert Fire Insurance Co., Industrial Insurance Co., Emmco Insurance Co., Resolute Insurance Co., Service Fire Insurance Co.; Stuyvesant Insurance Co., Interstate Insurance Co., and Fire and Casualty Insurance Co. of Connecticut.

Kelley said the investigation concerned insurance carried by motorists under 25 years old. He said the number of motorists paying premiums in that category had been reduced from an average 30 per cent two years ago to the current 11 per cent through the investigation and added the rate was expected to drop further.

Rail Removal Held Up Today By the Rain

The start of the removal of the abandoned streetcar rails in downtown Monessen was held up this morning because of rain, according to Richard Belan, assistant city engineer.

Weather permitting, work on the removal of nearly 11,000 feet of rails on Donner Ave. from Oneida to 12th streets will get underway tomorrow.

Charleroi Scrap Iron Co. will remove the rails at a cost of 70 cents per lineal foot.

The project will cost the city about $8,000.

Once the rails are removed, the state Highways Department is scheduled to completely resurface Donner Ave. from Oneida to 12th streets.

Former Donoran Charges Assault

ERIE, Pa. (UP) — Alderman William Heisler today ordered Cassius Liocano held for September term of court on an assault and battery charge filed by a one-time candidate for the nomination for governor.

The charge against Liocano, a state Highways Department foreman, was filed by Charles J. Schmitt, a former Donora resident, who had been fired from his job as a highway worker.

Schmitt alleged Liocano "pushed my arm" during an argument and caused a recurrence of a back injury.

Schmitt campaigned for the gubernatorial nomination on a platform to legalize horse race betting in Pennsylvania.

Pittsburgh Man Fatally Injured

BUTLER, Pa. (UP) — Thomas Walk, 42, Pittsburgh, was injured fatally and two persons were hurt Monday night in a two-car collision on U.S. 19 near the Pennsylvania Turnpike interchange.

Rena Aneson, 46, Pittsburgh, a passenger in Walk's car was listed in fair condition at Allegheny General Hospital.

Paul M. Plevell, New Brighton RD 2 was taken to Ellwood City Hospital, with undetermined injuries.

B&O Track Cleared

GARRETT, Pa. (UP)—Authorities reported Monday night that the Baltimore and Ohio main line had been cleared following a 78-car westbound freight wreck near here last Sunday.

LIE DETECTOR IN STAR ROLE — The lie detector is playing a starring role as authorities and "experts" try to determine whether Donald Joseph Wedler, escaped convict held in Deland, Fla., is truthful or fanciful in saying he was the man who bludgeoned Marilyn Sheppard to death. A lie detector test also was prepared for Dr. Sam Sheppard, who is serving life for the Cleveland murder, but Ohio's Gov. William O'Neil vetoed it pending further investigation.

Missing Sheppard Witness Located

DELAND, Fla. (UP) — A widely sought "missing witness" in the Sheppard murder case early today contacted Sheriff Rodney Thursby in a long-distance call from Waterloo, Iowa, the sheriff reported.

Thursby declined to disclose immediately any details of his conversation with the caller, merchant seaman Ernest James Kolofolias, of Long Beach, Calif., who is believed able to identify the man who claims he may have killed Marilyn Sheppard.

The sheriff, who is holding a Florida convict as a confessed suspect in the crime for which Dr. Samuel Sheppard was convicted, described Kolofolias as having given him an "urgent message."

He said the call came from a telephone booth in Waterloo.

Ohio Authorities Arrive

Ohio authorities who arrived Monday night to question a Florida convict about his "confession" to the murder, have previously said Kolofolias may be able to prove the truth of the claim.

Kolofolias told investigators of the Sheppard murder case in Cleveland three years ago that he was picked up by a man who acted nervous and bore stains that might have been blood.

The merchant seaman was sought for further questioning after bushy - haired Donald Joseph Wedler, 23, last week confessed the murder for which Sheppard, Cleveland osteopath, was convicted.

At the time Sheppard was convicted on a second-degree murder charge for his wife's death, no other suspect who might have been the motorist could be found to confront Kolofolias.

Lie Test Called Off

The possibility that the merchant seaman might identify Wedler as having been in the Cleveland area was believed likely to determine whether Ohio officials will give Dr. Sam a lie detector test.

The skeptical Ohio officials said they wanted to go over Wedler's confession "with a fine tooth comb" before they would accept its truthfulness because of "discrepancies" it contained.

Ohio Gov. C. William O'Neill Monday called off a test by private criminologists and said he will not permit it until he is convinced of the "truthfulness" of Wedler's confession.

After O'Neill announced cancellation of the lie detector test for Sheppard, the unofficial Court of Last Resort met in Columbus Monday night and decided to withdraw from the investigation.

Man, Beaten by Young Thugs, Dies in Hospital

Austin Wallace, a 72-year-old McDonald man who was severely beaten when three young thugs attempted to rob him on May 13, died yesterday in Washington Hospital.

Washington County Coroner L. C. Gray ordered an autopsy today to determine the cause of death.

Wallace was found injured in his home by a neighbor. He told authorities that three men beat him in an apparent burglary attempt.

A few days later police arrested George Pollard, 18, of Canonsburg; James Glenn Alford, 19, of Houston; and Ronald E. Burgess, 20, of Canonsburg R. D. 1, in connection with the beating.

The three youths appeared at a hearing before Justice of the Peace Thomas Russell, of Houston on May 23 and pleaded guilty of charges of assault with intent to rob by violence.

Pollard was committed to County Jail while Alford and Burgess were released on bond set by the court.

Squire Russell said that the three young men had also been connected with a robbery of a Canonsburg R. D. 2 man last April.

Pike Workers Vote to Join AFL-CIO Union

PITTSBURGH (UP)—Employes of the western section of the Pennsylvania Turnpike voted Monday night in favor of joining the AFL-CIO.

About 125 employes working on the road between the Ohio line and Somerset participated in the vote at a meeting in nearby Monroeville, according to Edward Dailey, regional director of the Federal, State, County and Municipal Employes.

Employes of the turnpike's central division, from Bedford to Reading, will meet tonight to vote on the move. On Wednesday, employes of the eastern section, from Reading to the Delaware River and the northeast extension to Scranton, will vote.

Dailey predicted two - thirds of the 1,500 employes of the turnpike would vote in favor of joining the union.

After Wednesday's meeting three committees, one from each section will apply for a charter, he said.

In a letter to the employes, Dr. Merritt Williamson, chairman of the Turnpike Commission, said, "The Turnpike Commission took action to extend to the turnpike employes the same rights and privileges in organization that previously were given to state employes in an order by Gov. Leader."

Route 40 Steak House Destroyed

BROWNSVILLE, Pa. (UP) — Nicky's Steak House, a bar and restaurant on Route 40 seven miles west of here, was destroyed during the night by fire.

Mr. and Mrs. Nick Faieta, the owners, set the damage at $50,000.

The fire broke out late Monday night; routing 25 patrons, was brought under control after midnight and then broke out again three hours later.

The first blaze broke out in a four-room basement apartment.

Break in Heat Wave Welcomed

A mass of cool air from Canada sent the mercury skidding more than 20 degrees in the district today, breaking a four-day heat wave.

At 11 a. m., the temperature reading at the Donora Zinc Works weather station was 72.

That was 26 degrees lower than yesterday's high of 98 which was recorded at 3 p. m. Throughout Monday, the mercury ranged in the mid-90's.

The new weather system moved into the district during the night, bringing with it rain.

A steady drizzle started to cool the Mon Valley area at about 4 a. m. today. Other sections of western Pennsylvania reported shower activity.

Fair Tonight

The Weather Bureau predicted that the rain will continue until late this afternoon when the skies will begin to clear.

Fair weather was predicted for tonight with temperatures in the 60's. Tomorrow will also be fair and cool as the Canadian air mass continues to dominate the state.

The soaking rain was particularly welcomed by district farmers, some of whom already report serious crop loss as a result of the heat wave.

While the cooler temperatures moved gently into the district, there was weather violence in other sections of the country.

A deluge in Chicago early today had suburbanites bailing out their

Rainfall May Save Hay Crop In the District

A soaking rainfall today promised to save the third crop of hay at district farms but it came too late to help the "burned-out" corn.

A survey of Rostraver Twp farmlands revealed that the recent heat wave took a heavy toll on crops — particularly corn.

"Much of our corn has been burned," said one farmer. "The yield this year will be comparatively small."

Another township farmer pointed out that the rain came too late to improve the corn growth. He also reported that the second crop of hay was "very poor" because of the exceptional dry spell.

However this morning's rain should be enough to save the third crop of hay, at least for the time being.

The heat wave also hit the township's dairy farmers. Milk production fell off as dairy herds found little grazing ground.

"It's been necessary to feed our herds, just as we do in the winter," commented a dairy farmer.

As a direct result of the heat

To Give Prizes at Picnic on Tuesday

Nearly $1,400 in merchandise awards will be distributed at the annual Monessen Community Picnic next Tuesday at Kennywood Park, Fred C. Stockus, chairman, announced today.

Included in the awards are five bicycles, automatic washer and dryer, portable television set, table model television set, transistor radio, electric toaster, five electric steam irons and three coffee makers.

Tickets for these awards are being distributed free by merchants belonging to the Chamber of Commerce. The drawings will take place at 3 p. m. at the park. Winners must be present.

Stockus also reminded residents that amusement tickets can be purchased at local stores and at the several outdoor ticket booths in downtown. SCOTTDALE, Pa. (UP)—J. Lyman Loucks, 94, formerly of Alverton, Westmoreland County, who served three terms in the Pennsylvania Legislature, died at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Grace Elliott, in New York City Monday night, according to word received here.

He also was survived by his son, Dr. Harold M. Loucks, of New York, and a brother, Rev. Elmer Loucks, of Denver, Colo.

Israeli-chartered Ship Is Moving Through Canal

JERUSALEM, Israel (UP) — The Israeli - chartered Danish freighter Brigitte Toft was reported moving through the Suez Canal today and officials expressed belief an Israeli citizen seized aboard the ship would be released soon.

The officials based their optimism on the general easing of relations with Egypt and particularly the mild tenor of President Gamal Abdel Nasser's speech Monday night marking the fifth anniversary of the revolution against King Farouk.

Another factor for rising optimism was Egypt's announcement at United Nations headquarters in New York that it had formally accepted compulsory jurisdiction of the International Court of Justice in disputes arising from Egyptian nationalization of the Suez Canal.

There still was tension with Syria, and Israel submitted a complaint to the U.N. truce supervision organization in Palestine charging Syria with violating the armistice agreement and asking an investigation of the threatening attitude adopted by the Syrian government.

Efforts by the Israeli-chartered freighter Brigitte Toft to use the Suez Canal with a cargo of rice bound for the Israeli port of Haifa had been seen as a mild attempt to test Egypt's determination to block the canal to all Israeli use.

Knowland Conceding Defeat

WASHINGTON (UP) — Senate Republican leaders informed President Eisenhower today that the controversial part three of his civil rights bill faces probable defeat.

Senate Republican Leader William Knowland publicly conceded that administration supporters may have lost their fight to keep strong court injunction "teeth" in the bill and a broad federal protection of all civil rights. He did so after a White House meeting of Republican congressional leaders with Eisenhower.

He said they told Eisenhower that there may be enough "doubtful" votes in the Senate to support an amendment eliminating part three's main clauses.

Part four, guaranteeing the right to vote, stands a better chance of acceptance, Knowland said. With this and the first two parts—establishing a special assistant attorney general for civil rights and an investigative commission—the bill may be passed in "several weeks," Knowland told reporters.

Knowland and Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson said they hoped for a showdown vote late today or tonight on a bipartisan amendment to eliminate the injunctive powers except in voting cases.

But the vote might be delayed by consideration of proposals to limit rather than eliminate the powers. One such amendment, offered by Sen. John W. Bricker (R-Ohio), would make it the responsibility of the president—rather than the attorney general — to decide when the government should intervene.

The Senate Monday met one of the other main objections of southern foes of the bill. It voted 90-0 to repeal a Reconstruction Era law that would have empowered the president to use troops to enforce civil rights under the bill, to which the earlier force" law would have applied. Southerners claimed this would permit school integration at bayonet point.

Administration forces accepted the repealer to allay southern fears although Eisenhower has said he could imagine no circumstances calling for such use of troops.

Forty-seven Democrats and 4 Republicans voted for the repeal amendment sponsored by Knowland and Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey (D-Minn.)

Bail Granted To Hungarian

PITTSBURGH (UP)—Laszlo Majer, who had been ordered deported to Austria with his wife and two children, will be released under $5,000 bond today pending a hearing in federal court Aug. 19.

Asst. U.S. Atty. Thomas E. Shannon told Federal Judge Herbert P. Sorg Monday that Majer, who had been a member of the border guard during the Hungarian uprising last year, should be placed in jail. However, the judge ruled Majer should be allowed bail which is to be raised by local Hungarians.

The government contended Majer failed to state he had once been a member of the Communist Party when he applied for entry to the U.S. Majer later admitted his party connections during an interview in Pittsburgh.

No Burning of Refuse Allowed

City officials are "burned up" over the burning of refuse and paper by Monessen residents.

Chief of Police Michael Kuvinka today pointed out that a City ordinance prohibits the burning of any refuse, including garbage, leaves, newspapers, etc. No burning outdoors is permitted except by permission of the chief.

Violators are subject to a $100 fine or 30 days imprisonment.

The chief said numerous complaints have been received.

Rostraver Fair Queen Contestants Can Prosper

Eight pretty young ladies are competing for the right to reign as queen of the annual Rostraver Twp. Fair which begins August 27.

And there's more than prestige involved.

To begin with, the queen will receive a $50 savings bond. Her two attendants will get $25 bonds.

Then there's a possibility the girls will share some cash too.

Here's why:

Originally the queen contest was set up as a fund-raising project of the Rostraver Twp. Band Parents Association. However the Fair Committee has since ruled that no activities may show profits.

So the Band Parents have decided to give all the profits, if any, to the competing girls.

Actually the Band Parents aren't too sure they'll even have enough money to pay expenses. They plan an elaborate crowning ceremony, with flowers and all of the trimmings.

The contest to select a queen is now underway. Jars have been placed throughout the district, with the contestant's pictures attached.

Each dime in the jar represents one vote.

The queen will be crowned the first night of the Fair. A special throne will be built to accommodate her highness the other two nights.

The Fair this year will be held at the Rostraver Junior High School and Stadium. An elaborate program is now being planned.

The queen contestants are Delphine Morgan, Lila Cinerski, Eleanor Kurylo, Carol Boltz, Karen Streets, Joan Buck, Beverly Sickels and Lois Ahlborn.

West Newton Man Is Called Pinball Expert

James Wilson, 27, of West Newton, reputed to be the best pinball player in the area, told Fayette County Court in Uniontown yesterday that "skill and practice are required for high scores."

Wilson, appearing as a defense witness, then played 10 games to prove his point.

Judge Eustace Bane, who is taking testimony in the case, looked on as Wilson won 8 free games once and 24 on another occasion.

Wilson said he could control the speed and direction of the ball as it proceeds down the playing board in the horizontal cabinet of the pinball device.

Employed as a fireman for the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, Wilson testified that he had spent many hours playing pinball machines in George's Restaurant in West Newton. He said he also played games in Donora and elsewhere.

Wilson's demonstration was under conditions favorable for the defense. He may be called back later by the Commonwealth to play an additional 10 game series under conditions dictated by the state attorneys.

When asked if he could place the ball in a certain hole on the board 10 times out of 20, Wilson answered yes. Asked if he could do it 10 times out of 10 he replied: "Possibly."

In his demonstration, Wilson was asked to place a ball in a certain hole. On one occasion, he succeeded on the second try. On another occasion, he wasn't successful until the 13th attempt.

Wilson told the court he was better than "some players" and testified that he played for up to four hours on the machines at one time.

The West Newton man was the first witness called by the defense.

Earlier Cpl. Louis Bell, of the State Police, had concluded the

Dulles Reports on Arms Ban

Time May Be Against Controls

WASHINGTON (UP) — Secretary of State John Foster Dulles cautioned Monday night that time may be running out on efforts to place nuclear weapons under international controls.

"Time is not unlimited," he said in a nationwide radio-TV address. "Each year that passes without agreement adds to the practical difficulty of achieving adequate limitation and control."

He said, however, that "some slight progress" has been made in current London disarmament negotiations with Russia and there is reason to hope for more.

Arms Development Continues

Until some firm agreement is reached, Dulles said, the United States intends to develop the best weapons it can and to keep its system of security alliances intact.

Dulles' address, approved in advance by President Eisenhower, reviewed U.S. disarmament proposals and evaluated progress so far at the four-month-old London negotiations among the United States, Russia, Britain, France and Canada.

The speech was designed to spike recent Soviet efforts to pin on the West any blame if the London talks break down.

A Detailed Picture

Officials said Dulles also felt it was time to give the American people a detailed picture of U.S. disarmament proposals. His report was more cautious than a British white paper last week which said "substantial advances" have been made.

Dulles assured Americans the United States is not about to give up its nuclear weapons altogether. He said "no one is thinking of disarming the United States or the Soviet Union" but that negotiators are seeking ways of controlling armaments to "reduce the danger of armed attack."

"...Unless international procedures are now devised to bring nuclear weapons under control, the problem may soon become totally unmanageable and we must anticipate that immense destructive power would come into the hands of those who might be quite irresponsible," he said.

'Miracle Survivor' Tells Story of the Andrea Doria

NEW YORK (UP) — Everyone called it a miracle at the time. It still is, to Linda Morgan and her mother, one year after the sinking of the Andrea Doria.

Linda, now 15, is the girl who first was reported among those killed when the Italian liner and the Swedish ship, the Stockholm, collided off Nantucket Island at 11:20 o'clock the night of July 25, 1956. But by some marvel the child still can't explain, she was "scooped" from her berth on the Andrea Doria and deposited safely on the damaged bow of the Stockholm.

Linda, who is spending the summer with an aunt, Mrs C. F. Van Valin, at Snohomish, Wash., told United Press this week she still has a "confused memory" of the tragedy.

"They have been calling me a 'miracle survivor' for a long time," said the dark-haired, dark-eyed girl. "I guess that is the only way to describe it. It was a miracle."

Linda's mother, Mrs Jane Cianfarra, now living in Manhattan, said she too often wonders by what chance she and Linda survived, when her husband, Camille, a New York Times correspondent in Madrid, and their daughter, Joan, 8, were lost. Linda is Mrs. Cianfarra's daughter by her first marriage to Edward P. Morgan, a newscaster for the American Broadcasting Co.

"Call it a miracle or whatever, it was incredible," said Mrs. Cianfarra today.

This is what happened to the Cianfarra family that night, as reporters pieced together the grim details. It was the last night of the voyage. The Cianfarras, who had boarded the Andrea Doria at Gibraltar, were heading home for a leave.

Cabins In Path

The family occupied cabins 54 and 52, located on the upper deck of the starboard side. . and in the path of the Swedish liner. Linda and Joan were in cabin 52. Linda said she and her sister had gone to bed about 10:30, talked for a little while about how comfortable the berths were with all the extra pillows they brought from Spain, and had turned out the stateroom light.

Linda remembers being awakened by "crashing and banging."

"I thought I was still on the other ship the Andrea Doria," she later told reporters from her hospital bed at St. Vincent's. "There was a pile of steel...I was dirty and my legs were bleeding."

Mrs. Cianfarra credits a Dorea crewman, Rovelli Giovanni, and Dr. Thure C. Peterson, a chiropractor from Upper Montclair, N. J., with saving her life. The collision trapped her between the springs of her bed and the bulkhead.

Peterson and his wife, Martha, were in cabin 56. When the ships collided, Peterson was knocked unconscious and tossed into cabin 58. He finally made his way back to his own cabin, only to find his wife pinned beneath a bulkhead and the outside of an elevator shaft. He gave her morphine, and went for help, locating Giovanni. But the two men were unable to move the heavy beams, and Mrs. Peterson died within a few minutes.

But the rescue team, by some means, located wire cutters and freed Mrs. Cianfarra.

Jane Cianfarra was brought into New York on the Ile de France, the first large ship to reach the disaster scene, and hospitalized at St. Clare's. She was told that all three members of her family were lost.

But Linda's name showed up on a list of the survivors being brought to port by the damaged Stockholm. Newsmen immediately contacted her father, and he telephoned Mrs. Cianfarra the good news.

Linda was hospitalized for nearly two months after the collision, with one arm and both legs broken. Her mother said doctors performed another operation on Linda's knee only two months ago.

Linda said she has no fear of water or boating, "but as for big ships and crossing the ocean, it would be kind of hard to get me on one again."

Rube Waddell Discoverer Dies

NEW CASTLE, Pa. (UP)—Mrs Scott B. Hamilton, 85, who helped launch pitcher Rube Waddell in the major leagues, died Monday in Youngstown, Ohio.

As a student at Old Volant College near here, she collected money from fellow students and townspeople to attract attention of major league scouts to Waddell, whom she recognized as a potentially great pitcher. At the time, Waddell was playing local baseball.

Waddell later played in both major leagues from 1897 to 1910 and compiled a win record of 194 games.

Mrs. Hamilton was the widow of a New York City Newspaper reporter and cartoonist who died in 1949, and the mother of Esther Hamilton, columnist of the Youngstown Vindicator.

der investigation, promised a thorough study of points of conflict between Wedler's story and the way police believe the murder was committed.

McArthur's only comment on his questioning of Wedler came in a clash Monday night with mystery writer Erle Stanley Gardner at the Columbus airport

Gardner asked if the former chief was going to ask the convict "a few questions."

"Our investigation will be a damn sight more thorough than your investigation has been," McArthur snapped.

Then, shaking his finger at Gardner, he said:

"This is the second occasion I have had to deal with this outfit"—referring to Gardner's Court of Last Resort which has been investigating the confession and has already given Wedler a lie detector test

"You got burned once," McArthur added.

Gardner suggested to McArthur, "Don't take this so personally," and the ex-chief walked off.

McArtnur arrived here late Monday night with Coroner Samuel R. Gerber and Cuyahoga County Detective Dave Yettra, all of whom helped investigate Mrs. Sheppard's murder.

Major Discrepancy

One of the major discrepancies is Wedler's version of the attack itself. He said he killed a Cleveland woman with "two or three blows" of an L-shaped pipe. Police said Mrs. Sheppard was murdered with 30 or 40 blows of a sharp instrument.

In their lie detector test this week, the Court of Last Resort came to the conclusion that Wedler was either telling the truth about the murder, or what he believed to be the truth.

O'Neill originally had authorized the polygraph test of Dr. Sam based upon the reports from Gardner.

But the governor said that later he received a second telegram from Gardner indicating there were major discrepancies in Wedler's story and the facts in the July 4, 1954, murder.

Prosecution in Final Bid to Convict Nine In Turnpike Trial

HARRISBURG (UP) — Prosecuting attorneys in the Pennsylvania Turnpike conspiracy trial today make their final bid for the conviction of the nine defendants accused of an attempted $19,500,000 swindle of turnpike funds.

District Attorney Huette F. Dowling and Deputy Attorney General Vincent G. Panati were both expected to address the jury in summations of the Commonwealth's charges against the defendants and of the evidence presented by the state during the course of the long trial.

Also scheduled to make his closing remarks to the jury today was counsel for the last of the defendants, former Commission Chairman Thomas J. Evans, of Coaldale.

The eight other defense lawyers completed their summations Monday, charging that the state's case against the nine was based entirely on circumstantial evidence, and that the state's attorneys did not prove their charges beyond the shadow of a doubt necessary for conviction.

Presiding Judge Homer L. Kreider was expected to take up the entire Wednesday morning session in court with his charge to the jury. The judge must review the testimony presented by both sides during the 9 days of the trial and instruct the five women and seven men on the panel in the law involved in the case.

The state charges the defendants, including five former top commission officials conspired with officers of the Manu-Mine Research and Development Co., Reading, to defraud the commission through mine-filling work on the Northeastern Extension, ostensibly aimed at preventing subsidence of the roadway where it traverses the anthracite fields in Luzerne and Lackawanna counties.

Pinball

state's case by telling of the June 20 raids in which 41 machines were seized in Uniontown, Connellsville and Brownsville.

At the Square News in Brownsville, Bell said police found a metal box beneath the counter containing paper slips dated from June 6 to June 19. The slips had figures marked "hits" and amounts ranging from $9.70 to $64.30. Over objections of defense attorneys, the contents of the box were admitted as evidence.

The State is trying to prove that the pinball machines are gambling devices. Such a ruling would permit an all-out campaign against the pinball machines.

Defense attorneys contend the devices are games of skill.

Attorney George Lindsay, counsel for the State Liquor Control Board, has been attending the hearings.

He signified he would recommend citations against tavern owners who have pinball machines even if the devices are declared to be only games of skill.

He said in cases where payoffs are proved, owners will face cancellation or suspension of their permits.

Draft Call for September Is Dropped to 8,000

WASHINGTON (UP)—The Defense Department today dropped the draft call to 8,000 men for September but served notice it does not intend to eliminate conscription "in the near future."

The September call was 3,000 below the number called for August and was the lowest monthly quota since April 1956 when 6,000 men were drafted.

The draft was slashed to carry out Defense Secretary Charles E. Wilson's recent order to reduce the strength of the services by 100,000 men by next January.

The Army, the only service which drafts men, is shouldering half the total manpower cut Wilson ordered. Of its 50,000 reduction, 44,470 will be in the enlisted ranks.

In announcing the September call, the Pentagon said "the lower level of calls reflects the decision to reduce the number of personnel in the armed forces."

"Draft calls for the Army will not be eliminated in the near future because of the reduced strengths," the announcement said. There was no definition of the term "near future."

Wilson is known to attach much importance to continuing selective service as a strong lever for producing volunteers for all the services and for the many reserve programs.

The September 1957 call compares with 14,000 men draft in the same month last year.

Profits Of GM Reported

By FRANK ELEAZER

WASHINGTON (UP)—House investigators called today for action to recover some of the allegedly excess profits General Motors made building 599 F84 jet fighters for the Air Force.

Chairman F. Edward Hebert (D-La.) of an armed services investigating subcommittee demanded also that disciplinary action be taken by the Air Force against employes who approved the GM contract.

The Hebert subcommittee made public Monday a General Accounting Office report on what the GAO called "unreasonably high prices" paid GM under the contract. The report said GM chalked up a profit of $32,940,500 on a $208,998,000 portion of the $375,848,000 contract whereas a profit of only $15,481,300 had been "contemplated."

Auditors Allegedly Barred

The GAO, sometimes called the Congress' "Watchdog of the Treasury," said GM refused to let government auditors see its books in incompleted defense contracts. Hebert has offered to issue a subpena to let the GAO auditors see the books.

General Motors, in a statement issued Monday night, denied any wrong-doing and said it has completed the contract "to the satisfaction of the Air Force over two years ago."

It said its profits on the contract was 11.3 per cent of sales before taxes and 5.4 per cent after taxes. "This," it said, "is a reasonable rate of profit and substantially below the rate.. realized by GM in its commercial business."

GM Supplied Data

It said details of the contract have been a matter of public record for nearly two years and as early as September, 1955, it supplied detailed cost and profit data on the contract to Hebert's subcommittee.

GM said on June 18 of this year it replied in greater detail to the GAO which planned to report to Congress on the contract, and asked the GAO to give the data to Congress along with the report.

"We are certain that an examination of the complete record will confirm that GM's price on this contract to the government and the profit accruing from it were fair and reasonable," the statement said.

The government auditors, however, blamed both GM for allegedly overstating its probable costs and Air Force contracting officers for failing to "analyze and evaluate effectively" 'GM's price proposals.

Former Resident Organizes Troop

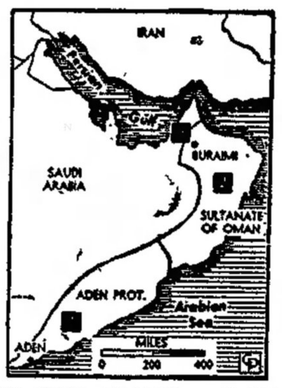
Dr. Mitchell Essey, a practicing veterinarian in Pigeon, Mich., was instrumental in organizing a Sea Scout Explorer troop under the sponsorship of the Pigeon Rotary Club. He was recently presented with the charter in special ceremonies.

Dr. Essey is the son of Elias A. Essey, of 638 Reed Ave., and was formerly active in the Boy Scout movement in Monessen.

John C. Martinet Leaves for Service

John C. Martinet, son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Martinet, of 100 Knox Ave., will leave Thursday for duty with the Air Force.

He will report to Lackland AFB in San Antonio, Texas, for basic training. He is a recent graduate of Monessen High School.



'OIL WAR' RAGING — British troops reportedly were being flown from Aden (1) to Oman (2) to help the sultan of Oman and Muscat settle an "oil war." Revolting tribesmen are said to control some 5,000 square miles of the sultan's territory. Oil rights are involved. If the rebels win out, it would mean recognition by Saudi Arabia, and thus oil concessions probably would go to U. S. companies. If the sultan retains sovereignty, oil rights probably would go to Britain. The oil-rich oasis of Buraimi (3) is in dispute between the British and Saudi Arabia.

Union Baptist Church Convention Here in 1958

The Union Baptist Church in Monessen will play host to the 1958 convention of the Youghiogheny Western Baptist Association.

The Monessen church was selected as next year's site over the weekend during a convention at the First Antioch Baptist Church in Greensburg.

A total of 200 delegates, representing 76 Western Pennsylvania churches, took part in the two-day convention.

Telegrams were mailed to President Eisenhower and both Pennsylvania senators expressing the convention's gratitude for their position on the current Civil Rights bill.

Top officers of the association were re-elected for the coming year, as follows: Moderator, Rev. Maxie Smith, pastor of the New Salem Baptist Church; first vice-moderator. Rev. J. H. King, of the Mt. Olive Baptist Church of Fairchance; second vice-moderator, Rev. E. W. Jarrett pastor of next year's host Monessen church.

cellars for the second time in two weeks.

The mercury hit a record 97.2 in New York City Monday, topping the city's previous sizzler for the date of 97.1 set in 1926.

Readings also sailed to a record 102 in Baltimore, and Bridgeport, Conn., and 101 in Washington, equalling a three-year high for the city.

Four Storm Deaths

At least four traffic deaths were blamed on Monday's rainstorm in Chicago. Up to 2 inches of rain swamped some suburban sections just recovering from a record downpour Juy 12.

Flooded streets tied up rush-hour traffic in the suburbs and along North Lake Shore Drive Monday afternoon, and flooded basements were common in the northern and northwest suburbs.

Other heavy rains hit Kansas, Iowa, Indiana and southern Michigan. Chanute, Kan., and Lafayette, Ind., reported some 3 inches of rain, and tornado funnel clouds were sighted in the vicinity of Lamoni, Iowa, but no damage was reported.

Light showers spread across the Ohio Valley into southern New England during the night, and weathermen predicted scattered afternoon showers and thunderstorms throughout the East.

Congressmen Fighting Legislation Battles on Three Fronts Today

WASHINGTON (UP)—Congressmen today fought legislative battles on three fronts: civil rights, school construction and pay boosts for postal workers.

The House prepared to give final approval to a $546-a-year pay boost for the nation's 518,000 postal workers despite White House opposition.

President Eisenhower has contended the pay boost would open the way for increases for nearly one million more federal workers and give inflation a new push. A veto has been threatened.

But the House shouted tentative approval Monday and only delayed a final vote to give more members a chance to get on record in a roll call.

The House also witnesses a final, desperate drive to round up votes by backers of the federal school construction program.

Democrats called on the President to take a personal hand in drumming up support. They said only a few GOP votes were needed to turn what looked like almost certain failure into victory.

At the same time, the Senate leaders sought a showdown vote by nightfall on a move to cut Part III — the southern-hated injunctive powers clause—from the civil rights bill.

Senate GOP Leader William Knowland said he believes at least some of the disputed injunctive powers that the bill would grant the attorney general would be salvaged.

Other congressional news:

Cigarettes: The House subcommittee investigating cigarette filters summoned Dr. John R. Heller, director of the National Cancer Institute. Earlier, Heller recommended in a copyrighted interview in U.S. New & World Report that cigarette smokers cut their consumption to less than a pack a day or switch to pipes and cigars to lessen the risk of getting lung cancer.

Rackets: The Senate Rackets Committee looked into a charge by AFL-CIO President George Meany that the United Textile Workers Union whitewashed its two top leaders. Meany accused the leaders of misusing funds.

Defense: Senators blamed the President for the more than two billion dollars cut from the defense budget by a House-Senate conference committee. They blamed administration statements that less money was needed. The $33,759,850,000 compromise bill now goes to the House and Senate for final approval.

Words: Congressmen quarreled over whether TV and radio networks are right in changing words like "darkies" and "massa" in the century-old songs of Stephen Foster. Rep. Robert L. Sikes (D-Fla.) called the changes "inexcusable . . . disgraceful censorship." Negro Rep. Charles C. Diggs (D-Mich.) said the changes are merely a "matter of good taste."

Victory Mine Inspected by Federal Bureau

The U. S. Bureau of Mines today urged "rock-dusting of mine surfaces that are not definitely wet" in the Victory mine at Belle Vernon.

The recommendation was made as a result of a report by Federal Mine Inspector G. L. Lynch, after a visit to the mine which employs four men.

The inspector suggested suitable preshift examinations for gas and other hazards; adequate face ventilation; safer installation of power wires; providing guards for both approaches to the mine fan; posting the mine map at a place accessible to interested persons; and maintaining the emergency escapeway in a manner that men can escape quickly in an emergency.

wave, more and more cattle have been put up for sale at district auctions. In Waynesburg the other day, a record number of 700 head went on the block.

Ironically, the hot dry spell benefited some farmers, too.

It provided them with ideal weather to harvest the small grains oats, barley and wheat, which were not affected by the heat.

Economy Drive May Hit Dixmont And Woodville

PITTSBURGH (UP) — A forced" economy drive may chop off about 225 maintenance jobs at Woodville and Dixmont state hospitals.

State Welfare Secretary Harry Shapiro, who visited the two institutions Monday, said that many employes were expendable.

Shapiro is reducing payrolls against his will because of budget cuts enacted by the 1957 Republican controlled Legislature.

He said he was aiming his economy campaign entirely at buildings and ground crews. Professional staffs, including physicians, nurses and technician, would remain intact.

It's better to let the buildings go to pot instead of the patients." he said.

Shapiro criticized a practice at Woodville of employing entire families, some of which live on the grounds. He said a preliminary check showed 94 "family names" on a payroll of about 800 workers.

He said dismissals would not be made in a wholesale fashion, but expendable workers would be dropped gradually.

He estimated 126 to 150 jobs could be eliminated at Woodville and 75 at Dixmont.

Ohio Firm Can't Sell Ice Cream

HARRISBURG (UP) — Dauphin County Court has refused an injunction sought by a western Pennsylvania dairy operator to restrain the state Agriculture Department from requiring the firm to obtain a milk products permit for the sale of ice cream in stores.

The order was handed down by Judge Walter R. Sohn Monday in the case of McAllister's Dairy Farms, Inc., which sells ice cream in its stores in Sharon, Meadville and New Castle under a state ice cream license.

State Agriculture Secretary William L. Henning contended the firm must also have a milk products permit under state law.

Kangaroo Got Too Close to the Tiger

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (UP)—A kangaroo named Katie was in a painful, humiliating fix today.

Katie got too close to a tiger's cage at the Bill McGraw Circus during feeding time and accidentally flopped her tail through the bars. The tiger promptly bit off 18 inches of it.

Animal handlers wrapped about 12 inches of the tail in a white bandage and rigged a sling from Katie's neck to the bandaged end of the tail to keep it from hitting the ground.

Circus officials said Katie now can go on with the show.

State Audit Causes Tug of War

HARRISBURG (UP)—A tug-of-war was underway today between Republican State Treasurer Robert F. Kent and the Democratic administration over who will audit the controversial special fund in the Labor and Industry Department.

Kent said he would not turn over "pertinent records" regarding the fund to a private auditing firm engaged by the administration because the state auditor general, also a Republican, was going to make the investigation.

The $1,170,000 fund and its disposition led to the dismissal last January of John R. Torquato as secretary of the Labor and Industry Department and the suspension of 23 employes paid from the fund to investigate claims.

The state treasurer cited a new statute signed by Gov. George M. Leader last May which mandates the auditor general to make audits "from time to time" of the special fund. He said Auditor General Charles C. Smith was "apparently proceeding under terms of that law.

"I also feel that as an elected official, I am morally and legally obligated to avoid, wherever possible, any unnecessary expenditure of the taxpayers' money," Kent said. He said the private auditing firm, Yaverbaum and Co., Harrisburg certified public accountants, had signed a $210 per day contract with the administration which would cost $6,000 to $8,000.

Kent said if state auditors made the survey, the cost would be considerably less.

"I am complying with the order of the auditor general and all pertinent records will remain in my custody, under his control, until released by him," Kent said. "Then they can be made available to a proper representative of the governor."

The hassle was the second this month between Gov. Leader and Smith. Last week, Leader cut the Auditor General Department's two year budget by nearly $900,000. Smith charged the reduction was made because the administration was "afraid" of investigations his office had undertaken.

Clinton Case Goes to Jury

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (UP) — A jury of white mountaineers, warned not to consider the issue of segregation versus integration but whether a lawful order had been violated, received the case of 10 Clinton residents and John Kasper at 11:20 a.m., e.s.t., today.

In a 54-minute charge, U.S. District Judge Robert L. Taylor told the 10 men and two women on the jury it could convict all 11 defendants or acquit all. But to convict any one of the 10 Clintonians, it had to convict Kasper also as the "hub" of a conspiracy to prevent integration of Clinton, Tenn., high school.

By the same token, Kasper could not be convicted alone, said the balding little judge.

Heavy Rains Needed in State to Aid Farmers, Ease Water Shortage

HARRISBURG (UP)—Scattered showers brought some relief to Pennsylvania's parched farmlands today and eased potential threats to the state's water supplies.

But farm products were still in danger in many sections and agricultural officials estimated the loss may run into millions of dollars unless steady, soaking rains come before the end of the week.

Southeastern Pennsylvania and some of the central counties have been hit the hardest. In those regions reports of stunted crops and shrunken yields were common, and in some instances farmers have been forced to put livestock on winter feed because of burned out pasturelands.

The water supply is still holding up, but officials pointed out if steady rain is not forthcoming soon they expect smaller communities to run into trouble.

L. D. Matter, chief of the Health Department's Water Supply Section, said "There has been no bad news so far, but we're keeping our fingers crossed."

"We're looking for trouble, but we haven't got it yet," he said. "If we don't get some good rain soon the communities which depend on wells and small streams will run out of their supply. We generally don't have trouble like that until the beginning of August."

Some communities have already warned residents against the indiscriminate use of water, particularly for watering gardens.

A U.S. Geologic Survey team which works in cooperation with the state Forests and Waters Department reported there is "considerably more water" in surface streams than in previous drought periods, but deep wells in the underground supply system are mainly running below normal.

The federal officials said of the 21 wells throughout the state in which measurements are taken for water tables, only four were above the normal mark for June. Those were in the western part of the state, in the counties of Allegheny, Clarion, Erie an Allegheny, Clarion, Erie and Somerset.

The big pinch was on the farm front, where lack of adequate rainfall has dried up some crops in the 10 day to two week drought.

The state Agriculture Department reported the heaviest damage has been to corn in southeastern and central Pennsylvania, although such crops as wheat and barley, tomatoes, lettuce and other vegetables have also been affected in Lancaster, Chester, Berks, Cumberland and Franklin counties.

A number of farmers in those areas have not gone into their second cuttings of hay, whereas normally they would be into the third cuttings.

The department said northwestern Pennsylvania farmers were in "fairly good shape" compared to those in other sections and there was still quite a bit of grazing of livestock in pastures. However, in the extreme southwest section, Fayette County farm agent Rex Carter said farmers in the county were in a bad way generally because the area has received no good rain since July 8.

The dry spell also posed a threat to the state's timberlands which were described by Horace B. Rowland, chief of the Division of Forest Protection, as "pretty dry."

Rowland said agents were keeping a close watch on wooded areas in the southeast, where no appreciable rain has fallen for about 13 weeks. He pointed out that as ground cover dries out the possibility of fire increases, although there have been only one or two small forest fires so far—a normal amount for the period.

Justice for All

THE FAYETTE COUNTY court is providing an example currently of the protection which our system of justice gives to questionable enterprises until they are proven unquestionably wrong. The matter under discussion is pinball machines. The court is going through some elaborate moves to learn whether or to what extent pinball machines are gambling devices.

More than 40 of the machines were seized by the state police in the course of raids. The state contends the machines should be destroyed because they are used for gambling. The owners say the machines are strictly playthings and they want them back.

Justice of course wears a blind. She doesn't care whose machines these are. She isn't supposed to care about anything except whether the machines are involved in breaking the law. So she's up there in the Fayette courthouse listening to arguments about whether it's skill or chance involved in playing pinballs, how the ball leaves the channel and gets into the field of lights and blinkers, whether odds are stacked into the wiring circuits, and how much "fun" a player derives from his addiction to the machines.

That blindfold had better be on real tight. Because if justice got a look at many of the places where these machines are in most active play, if justice peeped just a bit at the money and the fanatacism poured into the machines she might be tempted to take an ax to the things forthwith, as the judges say.

We're all for justice. We just don't like to see her mocked, and we wish she wouldn't stand quite so far off when she's needed to put things right.

Visit from Zhukov

WE CAN'T GET very excited about whether or not Moscow picks up the hint dropped by President Eisenhower that he would welcome an exchange of visits between Marshal Zhukov and Secretary of Defense Wilson. The President contended it might serve a useful purpose and could hardly do any harm.

Defense ministers are in no position to make firm commitments for the governments they represent. But such an exchange might give Washington an opportunity to find out a little more about what has been going on lately in Russia and about Zhukov's present status in the communist hierarchy.

It seems fairly obvious that Mr. Eisenhower is counting on a chance to talk with Marshal Zhukov informally if he comes to Washington. The two got along together well enough when both were top military commanders in Berlin, and one can hardly blame the President for feeling that this is one Russian he can talk to.

For our part, we take a more jaundiced view of the possibilities of such personal diplomacy. If the Russians are any more disposed to solve the world's problems than they have been up to the present, this will be evident without any visit from Marshal Zhukov. Furthermore, we're just small enough to resent having to pick up the large tab for vodka for the marshal's party, feeling as we do that all the sincerity and integrity at the party would come from the Americans.

We admire the President's patience in such matters. We undoubtedly have a chief executive of large capacity when it comes to getting along with others in the world. Fortunately for the cause of world peace there are persons like him who keep the door ever open for a solution of the problem. Many of us of lesser talent and goodwill would probably have slammed the thing shut long ago.

Spare that Tree!

ONE DOESN'T have to be a nut on nature to get a twitch at the way the bulldozers mow down the trees anymore. Perhaps this isn't such a tragedy in communities where they have more trees than people. But in Monessen a tree needs to be treated with all the respect due a scarce commodity.

It seems to be a too prevalent belief among lot owners that they are not ready to build a home until their plot has been stripped bare of all greenery. A tree, these folks think, is the biggest of all obstacles and is to be got rid of pronto. Crunch goes the dozer.

A tree means song birds, a place for the kids to climb, shade for the hammock and a thing of green to rest the eyes upon. A tree is also leaves to rake in the fall, but never mind that. Considering it takes about 25 years to put a sturdy one of these assets on your lawn, it is better to have a head start with one when the house is a-building. Revise the plans, perhaps, but spare that tree!

School Bill to Test Sincerity Of White House

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON — The long-delayed school construction bill comes up for a vote in the House of Representatives today or tomorrow. For almost four years, it has been held up — either by Mrs. Hobby's go-slow tactics, by the Powell amendment, or by U. S. Chamber of Commerce opposition.

Mr. Pearson

Passage now is going to depend on how hard the White House works for it. Officially Eisenhower is for it. Unofficially, Republican leaders intimate that Ike is less than lukewarm for it. Significantly, all Republican members of the Rules Committee voted against it.

The White House lobby on Capitol Hill is more efficient than at any time since the early days of Roosevelt. Every president tries to get his program passed through Congress and uses a White House staff to do it. They buttonhole Congressmen, promise postmasterships jobs, other favors.

The White House, when it goes into action, can be the most powerful agency in the nation, no matter who is president. And Ike has used his efficient lobbying machine to kill the Patman banking probe, to stall Hell's Canyon, and to pass foreign aid.

The interesting question will be whether this same machine will be thrown into high gear to pass another part of the Eisenhower program — school construction. The bets on Capitol Hill are that it won't.

Educating The President

Sen. Paul Douglas of Illinois sits all day crouched over his desk on the Senate floor. He listens to the debate, sometimes lifts his withered hand up on the desk to hold down a sheaf of papers.

Douglas is a Quaker who believes in peace when he can have peace, but will fight when he has to fight. He's fighting now. He enlisted in the Marines as a private at the age of 50. And he began battling for civil rights nine years ago when many Republican Senators, now for civil rights, were part of the coalition which opposed.

The other day, Douglas was talking about the apparent lack of understanding of the bill in certain quarters.

"We should debate this bill long enough," he said "for every member of the Senate — and even the President — to understand it."

"None of us," replied Senator Humphrey of Minnesota, "will ever live that long."

Republicans Fume at Ike

Probably at no time during his four and a half years in the White House Republican leaders been more furious at their own President than during the civil rights battle. Their ire comes from the fact that they don't know where their leader stands.

First flare-up came about two weeks ago when Eisenhower started backing down on his previous stand for civil rights. He told a press conference he wasn't familiar with the bill, wouldn't go for some of its provisions.

This was exactly the opposite of what Ike's own leaders had been telling GOP Congressmen. Ex-Speaker Joe Martin of Massachusetts had long had an understanding with southern Democrats to oppose civil rights, but he went down the line for civil rights when he got word that the President wanted it.

Charley Wilson of Indiana and Les Arends of Illinois, the other GOP leaders joined with Martin in telling GOP Congressmen Ike demanded the civil rights bill, that he must have a strong bill, that it must be passed exactly as written, no comma or semicolon must be changed.

It was not easy to roll up such a heavy Republican vote, but the leaders used Ike's name all over Capitol Hill. The bill was passed as a 100-per cent Eisenhower "must."

No "Must" After All

So when the man who demanded the bill said he wasn't familiar with its language and only wanted to protect voting rights, it sent the three GOP leaders scurrying to the White House telephone. Last week they saw Eisenhower, expressed their complaint personally.

This seemed to bolster the President. Afterward, July 16, he issued a much stronger statement. Vice President Nixon, worried over Ike's wishy-washy position, helped to draft the statement.

Next morning, July 17, Knowland called a meeting of all Senate Republicans to make sure there was a united front. White House vacillation had encouraged several Republicans to talk compromise with southern Democrats. They were: Mundt of South Dakota, Malone of Nevada, Williams of Delaware, and Young of North Dakota.

To discourage them, Senator Knowland told the closed-door GOP meeting that President Eisenhower definitely wanted the civil rights bill passed in the strong form it had come from the House, with the exception of some clarification of Section 3 on the use of fo

More Hurricanes: What to Do

By ROSCOE DRUMMOND

If the people of the United States are to protect themselves against the havoc and horrow of hurricane disaster, it is vital to know:

That the greater danger to lives and property still lies ahead this summer and fall.

Mr. Drummond

That the principal hurricane months are August, September and October.

That, as the plight of the Cameron Parish in southwest Louisiana grimly showed, we must in sheer self-defense act upon the Weather Bureau warnings more alertly and faithfully.

Millions of people need to know more about the practical precautions they can take to save themselves and their homes.

Although the means of plotting and predicting the course of tropical storms are improving, the danger from hurricanes is increasing. For reasons unknown the number of hurricanes imperiling the North American continent has been steadily mounting. The incidence of hurricanes today is nearly twice as great as it was in the latter years of the nineteenth century. For the past seventy years the average number per year was four. During the past decade the average number was seven. In the ten years from 1887 through 1896 there were fifty-six tropical storms of hurricane intensity, while from 1947 through 1956 there were seventy.

Learn About Storms

The Weather Bureau in Washington counsels people to familiarize themselves with the characteristics of these storms.

Hurricanes are large revolving storms accompanied by violent destructive winds, heavy rains and high waves and tides.

The winds whirl counterclockwise (in the northern hemisphere) with the highest speeds in a circular band beginning at the edge of the "eye" and extending out twenty to thirty miles or more.

The area of destructive winds along the path of a hurricane may be from 25 to 500 miles wide. As the storm develops and moves forward, it may traverse a path several thousand miles long from its birthplace in the Caribbean or tropical Atlantic until it moves inland over the continent or blows out into the North Atlantic.

The winds of a hurricane topple trees, blow over houses, tear down power lines and even blow trains off their tracks. The greatest loss of life, however, is caused by drowning. As the storm advances, it often piles up huge waves which cut off or completely cover low-lying beaches or islands. Giant waves smash shore buildings, roads, bridges. Accompanying rains flood and destroy crops, wash out roads and flood low-lying communities.

Some Precautions

Here are the principal precautions.

1 — Listen to Weather Bureau warnings on radio and TV.

2 —Ignore rumors.

3 — Get away from low-lying locations. Leave early if you must use a road which may be under water.

4 — If your dwelling is out of danger from high tides and is well built, it is probably the best place to stay.

5 — Be alert for high water where streams or rivers may flood.

6 — Board up. Put up storm shutters, tape or otherwise protect windows.

7 — Get in extra food which does not require refrigeration.

8 — If emergency cooking facilities are necessary, be sure they are in order.

9 — Equip yourself with extra drinking water as city water services may be cut off.

10 — Have emergency lights in working order.

11 — Be sure to have gasoline in your car.

12 — Check on everything that might blow away or be torn loose. Garbage cans, garden tools, toys, signs, porch furniture are all weapons of destruction in hurricane winds.

13 — Be sure that a window or door can be opened on the side of the house opposite the one facing the wind.

14 — If the center of the storm passes directly over, there will be a lull in the wind lasting from a few minutes to half an hour or more. You can then make emergency repairs but remember the wind will return suddenly from the opposite direction, often with greater violence.

15 — Be calm. Your ability to meet the emergency will inspire and help others.

The Lighter Side—

Is New York Slipping?

By DOC QUIGG

NEW YORK (UP) —"Somewhere in this favored land the sun is shining bright." Somewhere is probably not San Francisco, which is one of the country's foggiest—and loveliest—cities.

But since mighty Gotham has struck out as a home for the baseball Giants, the enchanting, hill-happy metropolis on the West Coast is being touted as the town most likely to succeed in luring Willie Mays and friends to its midst.

All right, let 'em go, God bless 'em. If they have to leave, it is a pleasure to know they're leaving while they're still ahead. Ahead of what? That's a good question.

But there is at least one good answer. While they're winning, that's what. Since the turn of the century, they have won 4,784 games and lost only 3,837. They're ahead in games won over games lost while a New York club.

Feel Rather Safe

It will be interesting for us Giant fans to wait one year and then see if San Francisco can make the same boast. In the face of the present trend, we feel rather safe. Still...earth - shaking events have happened out there before.

There has been a suggestion that, until San Francisco can get a new stadium built, the Giants play their home games in the Cow Palace, the king size quonset hut in which the Republicans triumphed over Joe Smith last summer. This would provide long-ball hitters with outfield fences as close as they are in the Polo Grounds and almost as close as those in Ebbets Field.

The news that the Giants will leave Coogan's Bluff for Nob Hill was not so disquieting as the additional utterance by Horace Stoneham, president of the ball club.

"New York City is slipping," he said, adding that the potential baseball audience was moving to the suburbs and the city couldn't expect to support three baseball teams and maybe not even two.

Town Doing OK

Slipping? Well, to tell you the truth, some of us around here have felt a bit unsteady of late, although we were hesitant to come right out and use an ominous word like "slipping." The town seems to be doing all right, on the surface.

However, according to the city official in charge of water mains, the rash of broken mains which has moistened our traffic arteries recently is due to unrest beneath the surface. The ground is shifting, he says, causing the breaks.

And it is true that we've lost population, as shown by a recent quickie census. New York now must bow to both Tokyo and greater London and take a third-biggest-city rating.

Negro Rights Argued By Council in N. Y.

By LYLE C. WILSON

WASHINGTON (UP) — For the record it should be noted that the United States Senate is not the only political forum in which rages a dispute over the rights of Negroes to equality and integration.

It may surprise some persons, including the embattled southern Democratic senators here, to learn that the other forum in which such a dispute prevails is the General Welfare Committee of the Municipal Council of the City of New York. Strange, but true.

Mr. Wilson

A considerable part of the pressure on Congress to enact the pending civil rights bill without any softening of its provisions comes from New York City and similar great urban areas outside the South. Even so, New York's General Welfare Committee has been troubled since last May 21 by a simple proposal. The proposal would make it unlawful to discriminate for reasons of race, color, religion national origin or ancestry in the rental or sale of dwelling space. The proposed ordinance is intended to open to Negroes dwelling units evidently now closed to them by reason of such discrimination.

Opposition Strong

Newspapers and individuals which long have championed such a civil rights project as now confronts the Senate have been less enthusiastic about the anti-discrimination project in their home town. The real estate boards of all five boroughs of New York City vigorously opposed the proposed ordinance.

After public hearings in mid-June, the project was sent back to committee. The mail count against the proposition was 3 to 1 at City Hall. Some councilmen said their mail was 4 to 1 against. What happens next is anybody's guess.

The ordinance already has been substantially amended. It originally provided fines up to $500 for discrimination in the sale or rental of housing units. Sen. Jacob K. Javits (R-N.Y.) was among those staunch advocates of the civil rights bill now pending in the Senate who urged modification of the New York proposition to eliminate certain punitive provisions. The $500 fine provision has been abandoned.

Javits opposed the fine provision. He urged, instead, resort to "mediation, conciliation and technical assistance, with court injunctions as the primary enforcement medium to back it up."

Charles Abrams, head of the New York State Commission against Discrimination, took the same stand. The New York Times reported the Javits-Abrams action in this language:

Softening Amendments

"Two champions of civil rights called yesterday (July 7) for amendments to soften proposed city legislation to outlaw discrimination in private housing."

If, indeed, the proposal was to soften, then Javits' position toward the civil rights legislation pending in the Senate is substantially different. He opposes any softening there.

The committee also amended the bill to eliminate all cooperative apartments. As introduced last May, the bill exempted only one and two-family houses except those sold in developments of more than 10 units.

Councilmen Joseph T. Sharkey, of Brooklyn, and Earl Brown, of Harlem, both Democrats, sponsored the ordinance with Councilman Stanley M. Isaacs of Manhattan, described as a Liberal-Republican. Brown representing one of the great Negro constituencies, has bitterly protested the handling of the ordinance and the activities of Sharkey and of some of their fellow Democrats.

Neither the sponsors nor others who might know will venture now to predict what may happen to this anti-discrimination project in the capital city of civil rights. Sharkey could offer no more than a "hope" that he could get the ordinance out of committee and before the council for final action.

The Woman's View—

Economist Says U. S. Big Hit at Poznan

By GAY PAULEY

NEW YORK (UP) — Mail order catalogs, frozen orange juice and corn-on-the-cob were the leading attractions among the "Americana" displayed at the International Trade Fair in Poznan, Poland.

So says Barbara Sampson, a home economist and the only American woman helping with the U.S. exhibit at the recent 15-day event.

Gay Pauley

It was the first time the United States has participated in a trade fair behind the Iron Curtain. Miss Sampson said the results were a lot of new friends for the United States.

"The people knew they couldn't buy most of the things we showed," she said. But no one seemed to resent this.

"While the fair was on, the eating establishments in Poznan were closed to all but foreigners. So the Poles just brought their lunches or dinners. One man told me he would be glad when the fair was over so there would be more in the shops for Poznan residents.

"But he wasn't griping. After all, to the Polish, what are two weeks in 20 years of doing without!"

No Pushing Or Shoving

Miss Sampson, who has just returned from the fair and a brief vacation afterward in Denmark, said "We don't have crowds in this country like we had at Poznan.

"Eighteen thousand people an hour moved thrugh the U.S. pavilion," she said. "But they didn't push or shove, I kept thinking of the sway of a giant wheat field."

She said that in all, 1,680,000 persons visited the U.S. exhibits.

Miss Sampson, a home economist with General Foods, supervised the foods exhibits set against a supermarket montage. She said the stress was on frozen foods—264 varieties were displayed—because these are things typical of our kitchens and unknown in Poland.

In the early morning and late afternoon when the crowds thinned visitors could stop to talk and taste. "There was much smacking of lips over orange juice," she said. "The frozen corn on the cob amazed them; to most Europeans, corn is animal food."

The home economist was one of six persons invited by the U.S. Department of Commerce to direct exhibits showing what we eat, use and wear. She trained 11 Polish girls, all students at the University of Poznan, to help her with the food demonstrations. Most of the cooking was done with electrical appliances which, like the hundreds of cases of foods, were shipped from the states.

"The girls had never seen a rotisserie," she said. "But it wasn't long before they were running electric toasters, skillets and waffle irons expertly. The electric can opener was such a hit with the visitors we just kept it going, even though it was grinding around an empty can half the time. It got 10 years' wear in two weeks."

People Look Good

The catalogs supplied by Sears Roebuck drew oh's and ah's.

"The people just didn't seem able to believe that to get anything you wanted, all you have to do was write a letter, Miss Sampson said. "Poland has no such abundance. Yet its people look good. They have clothes, but no fashion. And the children are bright-eyed and shiny-haired."

Miss Sampson said that when she left Poznan she said to her associates "I hope I never again have to see people standing in line."

"But when I got to Copenhagen, there was another line," she said. "The Danes were waiting to get in to a football game.

"I thought then, to wait in line for football, that's freedom. To wait in line for milk, that is another thing."

ON THE BALL

By CLAIR BROWN

Clairton Apparently 'In' Big Six

Apparently Clairton is all set to come into the Big Six Conference. When the story broke last week that Redstone was "out" and Clairton invited to join the valley grid loop it was figured to only be in the invitation stage but an item in the McKeesport paper reads, "Clairton has been ACCEPTED into the Monongahela Valley's Big Six Conference." In fact the story goes on to say that Coach Neil Brown is so interested he has even made a suggestion the loop be expanded to include ten teams, bringing in Turtle Creek, Duquesne and Elizabeth-Forward High Schools . . . Incidentally, look for the EF school to develop into a football power in Class AA before too long. They're already a power in Class A under Coach Tony Rubino.

As soon as the 1957 baseball season ends, the Bucco's Bill Virdon will begin making plans for his baseball school in Tampa, Fla. Three 4-week sessions open on Jan. 10. No age limit and a chance for a baseball scholarship to outstanding players. Virdon is chief instructor but has several ex-minor leaguers helping him . . . The Philadelphia Phils will hold a tryout camp at Beaver Falls High School on July 2, 26 and 27. Scout Cy Morgan will be in charge of the sessions . . . Fuzzy Anderson, the Monessen Ozarks hurler, is a busy fellow during the games. When the Ozarks bat, Fuzzy coaches on the bases and when the Ozarks are in the field he warms up. Always follows that routine.

Nemacolin Pool Leak Repaired

That old saying about everything coming out in the wash after things have gone wrong applies to the Nemacolin Country Club directors. The embarrassed directors had to postpone the dedication of the new club pool when all of the water leaked out last week, but the leak was repaired and the pool opened just as the recent heat wave hit the district. The dedication has been tentatively reset for Sunday, July 28 . . . Paul Bishoff, former West Virginia university end, has been added to the coaching staff at Beaver Falls High School . . . Bob Pastor, well-known Mon Valley League player for Donora CIO, is doing a fine job with the Donora PONY stars who topped the locals 9-1 Saturday . . . Andy "Red" Midway, popular baseball arbiter from New Eagle, came in for plaudits from local officials for his handling of Saturday's PONY playoff tilt here.

Season football tickets have already gone on sale at Donora for the five-game Dragon home card beginning with North Catholic at home on September 13. Then comes Charleroi on Sept. 27, Brownsville on Oct. 25, Washington on Nov. 8 and Monessen on Nov. 15 . . . If that didn't convince you that football is going to completely take over the sports pages soon (except for the major league pennant races) then the fact that the Pittsburgh Steelers open training Sunday at Olean, N. Y. will . . .Speaking of the Steelers, they have 42 players under contract . . . Eddie Kikla, Monongahela's celebrated hurler, has an unusual mark in the PONY League World Series official record book — he holds the honor of most strikeouts in one inning, fanning four batters. (Cather dropped the third strike, runner safe, necessitating four SOs to retire the side).

Ex-'Hound Bob Petty Fans 13

Former Greyhound baseball ace Bob Petty is doing quite well for Bluefield, Va., whiffing 13 batters in a recent relief role. He took over the mound chores in the first inning with the sacks loaded, retired the next three batters in order and went on to fan 13 . . . Paul Hoffman, who almost single-handedly led Bellmar to a Mon Valley Section baseball title two years ago (falling short by one game), is returning to Bethlehem College soon. He has been hitting the ball at a terrific pace in the Tri-County Softball League for the Fairhope Firemen, showing a .401 mark and six homers. He can apparently hit as well as pitch.

Marciano Insists He's 'Finished with Ring'

By OSCAR FRALEY

DAYTON, Ohio (UP) — Former heavyweight champion Rocky Marciano, firm decision evident in his voice and his steadfast brown eyes, answered persistent reports that he might make a comeback by declaring today he was "absolutely finished with the ring."

"They couldn't print enough money to make me fight again," vowed the surprisingly fit man who retired undefeated in April of 1956. "Believe me, once and for all, I'm done."

He said it in a way which made you believe him despite estimates that he could get the lion's share of a potential three million dollar gate for meeting current heavyweight champion Floyd Patterson.

He's Losing Weight

"It's a laugh," said the Rock, who visited Dayton to attend the PGA golf championship. "If I take a walk or wear a turtle neck sweater or step into the gym to try to knock off some weight, right away everybody starts insisting I'm getting ready for a comeback. Well, I'm not."

Marciano has a simple explanation why he has, of late, gone back into the gym — ballooning weight.

"I was up to 225 pounds," he grimaced. "Boy, I was getting so fat I couldn't bend over to tie my shoelaces. So I went to a gym in Miami Beach, where I'm living now and took off 10 pounds. I'm down to 215 pounds now and feel real good."

The last time he fought, when he knocked out Archie Moore in September of 1955, he weighed 188¼ pounds. Right now, except for the suspicion of a spare tire in the belt area, he looks fit and hard.

Playing Golf Now

"I'm playing a lot of golf now," he said in his fast, clipped manner of speaking. "Understand, I'm not much good and I feel happy when I break a hundred. But I feel like my game's getting better."

And any fighting he does from now on, he vowed, will be strictly of the fairway variety.

"Anybody who has tried to come back just hasn't had the same feeling and, the records show, very little success," he analyzed. "I haven't talked to Ray Robinson about it, but I'd like to know how he felt."

Marciano has under consideration "three or four big offers after listening to a zillion." Within two months he expects to have something new going for him.

"But I'll say it again," he concluded, "it won't be boxing."

Ohioan Named Bellmar Cage Mentor

Thomas Healey Also Elected Football Aide

The long wait was over for Bellmar High School basketball fans today.

Action by the Joint School Board of the Bellmarette School District last night saw Thomas Healey, 35, of Wellsville, Ohio, unanimously named to the head basketball coaching post to succeed Jack Flora, who was relieved of his duties after last season.

Kent State Grad

Healey, a Kent State graduate, with seven years coaching experience in the Wellsville school system, was also named to fill the assistant football coaching position vacated by the resignation of Frank Mizikar, after last season.

Married and the father of four children, Healey has been doing graduate work at the University of Pittsburgh.

He bagan coaching at Wellsville in 1950 when he piloted the freshman team there. In 1951-52 he coached the reserves and was named head mentor at Wellsville High School in 1952 He has also served as assistant football coach there for five years.

Three-Year Contract

The 5-9, 150-pound ex-athletete was given a three-year contract for both the basketball and gridiron positions but no salary terms were announced. Speaking for the Joint Board J. E. "Ted" Kuhn, secretary, stated that "salaries of all the coaches will be discussed at a later meeting."

Described as a "live-wire" coach, Healey also piloted a semi-pro quintet with the fabulous Bevo Francis of Rio Grande College, in Ohio, as a member of the team.

Healey's record at Wellsville over the five year head coaching period was 84 wins, 47 losses. Operating Competing in fast company with teams the likes of Farrell, Steubenville, Chester, East Liverpool, Salem, Toronto, etc., his best marks were the 16-6 record of 1952-53 and the 17-6 of 1953-54. Last season he posted a mark of 11-9. In last year's Farrell game the perennial kingpins of that area held only a three-point lead over Wellsville, a school of only 530 enrollment. He coached two teams in sectional tourneys, approximately 8,000 residents.

Fits Teaching Schedule

Qualified to teach physical education, history and biology, Healey fits perfectly into the Bellmar High teaching schedule, a board member stated.

The first "big" job for the new coach will be finding a home for his family and it'll have to be soon for grid drills will be getting underway at Bellmar in less than a month.

Healey was chosen from a list of 15 applicants for the coaching post.

Cro-Ams Nip PNA Rallies

Seven runs in the first two innings and then a stout defense which held off repeated PNA rallies gave the league-leading Cro-Ams a 9-8 "squeaker" win over the second-placers in City Softball action last night.

Only four hits were required to garner the seven runs with Ernie Lattanzio clubbing a three-run homer for the "big blow", in the second frame.

After the Cro-Am early attack, "Blinks" Adamczyk relieved "Shorty" Skowronski on the mound in the third inning for PNA and hurled neat ball the rest of the way, allowing only five hits and two runs.

Desperate Rally Falls

PNA's desperate rally attempt in the seventh was quelched by Center Steve Rockovich who relieved "Stush" Nickolich for the Cro-Ams.

Joe Gladys and Ed Hasco of PNA shared homer honors with Lattanzio who also had two other hits to pace the winners along with Nickolich who had two safe blows. Tom Kovach and Ed Malush with two hits each and George Lovich with three safeties, including a round tripper were the big guns for the losers.

Tonight ULBA battles the Ravens at City Park.

Harry Vernet of the Unionmen clubbed two doubles while David Bergstead with connected for a homer to pace the winners.

Ted Domenick and Richard Yatfor the winners.

Pirates Begin Touring

CINCINNATI, Ohio (UP)—The Pittsburgh Pirates begin a 14 game western tour tonight opening with the Cincinnati Redlegs.

Slated to pitch for Pittsburgh was Vernon Law (6-4) against Johnny Klippstein (4-9).

When the Bucs finish the tour August 4th in an afternoon game with Chicago, they will have played western competition 58 out of 65 contests played so far.

The Bucs have played Brooklyn, Philadelphia and New York only seven times during the past five weeks. They met the Phils once, Brooklyn twice and the Giants four times.

The Pirates were idle Monday following a near double defeat at the hands of St. Louis on Sunday when the Cardinals took the first game 7-3 in 10 innings. The second game was halted because of the 7 p.m. Sunday curfew law with St. Louis ahead 11-2 in the top of the ninth.

Rockets Upset Prep Blackhawks

An upset in the local Prep League yesterday saw the Rockets edge Blackhawks 6-5, on a last-inning homer by Mickey Kerestes.

The Blackhawks had taken a 5-0 lead in the third but the Rockets came back to tie the count in the sixth setting the stage for Kerestes' blow over the centerfield fence.

Walter Jackson was credited with the victory as he fanned eight and walked only one batter while his mound foe Richard Kuhar gave up eight safe blows, struck out 10 and gave up three walks.

The loss was only the second in 12 games for the 'Hawks.

DOCTORING YOUR GOLF

By CARY MIDDLECOFF

Think Ahead

When you stand on the tee with a driver in your hand, don't just think about hitting the ball as far as you can in the general direction of the hole. Use your head. Give some thought to the angle from which you would like to play your second shot. Is the pin in the left corner of th green? If so, you will probably be better off on the right hand side of the fairway. And vice versa.

You say you're fortunate to hit the fairway at all off the tee? That may be true. I think the same thing myself at times. But the fact remains thinking ahead on the gold course well cut your score by several strokes.

I know that I lose as many strokes through mental errors as I do by swinging errors. And I'l bet you do, too.

Yankees Can Do It Again

Extended Stay at Home Now

By JOHN GRIFFIN
United Press Sports Writer

Is this where the New York Yankees kiss the rest of the American League goodbye?

It could be. Returning home from a fine western trip in first place by a solid 4½ games, the world champions get the chance to wipe out what's left of the 1957 AL pennant race in a 17 - game home stand opening tonight with a tilt against the second-place Chicago White Sox.

There are no such "runaway" fears in the National League, however, as activity resumes. As the eastern teams go west in the NL it's still a five-team free-for-all for first place with every prospect that it will last all season.

Two Big Questions

Two big questions feature the NL race now:

How long can the Milwaukee Braves hold their one-game league lead in the face of so many injuries? Are the defending champion Brooklyn Dodgers rolling now, as their 10 wins in 12 games since the All-Star break hints?

The Braves, opening at home tonight with 10-game winner Bob Buhl facing the Philadelphia Phillies, are so shackled by injuries that they wound up their eastern swing with catcher Del Crandall playing right field. Bill Bruton has been placed on the disabled list; Hank Aaron has an injured leg; Joe Adcock is out with a broken leg, and various other Braves are limping.

The Dodgers have injury worries, too. Duke Snider's trick knee probably will force him to wear a leg brace in tonight's game in St. Louis. Rookie catcher John Roseboro did not accompany the team to St. Louis because of a thin fracture of the index finger of his right hand. He was struck on the hand by a foul tip Saturday.

The third-place Cardinals, only 1½ games behind, hope their faltering pitching reacts to this 20-game home stand like a tonic. Only Sam Jones has gone the route in the last 14 games.

Fourth-place Cincinnati, two behind, still is trying to make the best run-making machine owned by a contending team run despite the poorest ERA, 4.34 But the Redlegs have shaken off their recent seven-game losing streak to win seven of the last nine and now they're home again.

MIAMI (UP) — Officials of the Orange Bowl football game disclosed today that pressure from television networks for more attractive games prompted them to drop their bowl tie-up with the Atlantic Coast Conference.

Renews with Big 8

The Bowl Committee announced Monday it has renewed its bowl agreement with the Big Eight (the old Big Seven) from 1959 through 1961. But a similar pact with the ACC will be dropped after the game next Jan. 1.

The committee also disclosed a clause in the new pact that might permit perennial power Oklahoma to appear in the bowl as often as three times in the next four years.

The committee had been under strong local pressure to end the "closed shop" selection of teams and open the door for local favorites Miami, Florida, and Florida State. But then the pressure came, too, from the television outlets.

OBC President Joe H. Adams and former chairman Van Kusserow said the networks were looking for a bigger audience.

Wider Choice

"The television people wanted us to have a game with an intersectional angle," Kusserow explained. "With a Big Eight champion as the host team, we have a wide choice from the Southeastern and Atlantic Coast conferences, Army, Navy and an outstanding eastern team."

The Sooners are eligible to return next year under an old agreement.

In the new pact, the bowl got the Big Eight to agree to permit the conference champ to repeat again in 1959 because "it is the silver anniversary of the bowl."

McCreary Suffers Leg Fracture at Belmont

NEW YORK (UP) Conn McCreary, veteran 36-year-old jockey, said today he expected to be riding again "fairly soon" despite a fractured right leg he suffered at Belmont Park Monday.

McCreary was removed to Physicians Hospital after he was spilled backwards while on Simon The Bold in the starting gate before the fifth race.

Doctors said his leg was fractured just above the ankle but they did not estimate how long it would be before he was able to ride again.

Orioles Searching For Team Song

BALTIMORE (UP)—The Baltimore Orioles have decided to say it with music and one fan already has suggested, "Open The Door, Richards" as a possible morale booster.

Oriole officials feel that a team song might spur the club on to greater heights.

The darkhorse entry so far is an oldtime song by E. L. White entitled, "Don't Kill The Birds."

Scott Enters Most Important Racing Week

Herb Scott enters his most important week of racing this season tonight at Washington Raceway.

Herb, hotter than the weather this past weekend, has taken a form grip on the lead in the Pittsburgh Racing Assn. sportsman division.

He'll be trying to hold this lead tonight at Washington, Thursday night at Heidelberg and Saturday night at South Park and still be in tune for the sprint car races at Heidelberg next Sunday afternoon.

The sprint cars next Sunday will, for the most part, be driven by drivers of the All-American Racing Assn. who have come from the cream of racing all over the nation.

But Herb, because of his top ranking in the Pittsburgh district, also will be given a chance to compete in the Indianapolis-type cars.

Sprint car driving, of course, is not new to Herb. But his main interest for the last two seasons has been in the PRA sportsman title — which he picked up last season and has a grip on this year.

How Herb competes with the top national drivers he'll run into next week is a question that won't be answered until next Sunday afternoon at Heidelberg when the AARC drivers run off their 50-lap Big Car championship race at 2:30 p. m.

Six Major League Managers on 'Hot Seat' With Jobs at Stake

By MILTON RICHMAN

NEW YORK (UP)—Half a dozen major league managers are sitting squarely on the "hot seat" today, knowing their jobs for 1958 depend on whether or not they can rally their clubs for that final, down-the-stretch drive.

The six pilots whose jobs are at stake are Fred Haney of the Braves, Fred Hutchinson of the Cardinals, Bob Scheffing of the Cubs, Kerby Farrell of the Indians, Jack Tighe of the Tigers and Lou Boudreau of the Athletics.

Haney was given the Milwaukee job with the expectancy he would win the National League pennant. He missed last year when it appeared he had the title in his grasp and if the Braves fail again this year, the Milwaukee front office won't wait around for a third strike.

Hutchinson's Tactics Criticized

Hutchinson has been the target recently of considerable criticism from Cardinal officials over his handling of the St. Louis' pitching staff. This could be his last season with the Redbirds and if it is, the chances are veteran shortstop Alvin Dark will be named his successor.

Scheffing inherited a thankless job when he succeeded Stan Hack as manager of the Cubs this season and even the front office didn't expect a first division finish. But 29 victories in 86 games so far do not enhance Scheffing's chances of being signed again for next year, and already there have been reports that Chuck Dressen, Charlie Grimm, or Charlie Root might take over the reins next season.

Over in the American League, the Indians hired Farrell last winter following Al Lopez' departure only after they were unable to obtain several other candidates. Cleveland finished second last year and didn't argue with Lopez too much when he wanted out. Now, the Indians are fourth and Farrell's future doesn't look especially bright.

If the ax does fall on Farrell at the close of the season, look for General Manager Hank Greenberg to make another pitch for Marty Marion as manager, Eddie Stanky, now a coach with Cleveland, also would be a possibility.

Gordon To Tigers?

The new Detroit owners make no bones about the fact that they confidently expected the Tigers to wind up among the first four this year. They still have a chance to do so, but if they don't, Tighe could become the fall guy. And if he is let out, Joe Gordon might be brought in as manager.

Gordon quit as coach of the Tigers in disgust while Spike Briggs Jr., had the club, but that bit of impetuousness wouldn't hurt his chances with the present owners.

There are also signs that the paying public in Kansas City is growing a bit impatient with their seventh-place club.

Both the Kansas City fans and the front office had reason to suppose the Athletics could climb as high as sixth, and possibly even fifth, as a result of all those deals with the Yankees. But the A's appear to have all they can do to beat out Washington for seventh place and that doesn't bode well for Boudreau.

Who would replace Boudreau in the event he goes? Don't be too surprised if his successor comes from the Yankees' organization.

Pirates Sign Four Prospects

PITTSBURGH (UP)—Four prospects have been signed to minor league contracts, including James and John Van Natta, of High Bridge, N.J., a brother battery combination, the Pittsburgh Pirates announced Monday.

The others are pitcher Thomas Reignard, 19, Mauston, Wis., and outfielder George Repasky, 20, Youngstown, Ohio.

Reignard will report to the Salem, Va. club in the Appalacian League and Repasky was assigned to the Clinton, Iowa, club of the Midwest League.

The Van Nattas last year matriculated at Moravian College, Bethlehem, Pa. James, 20, a pitcher, completed his sophomore year and John, 19, catcher, finished the freshman course.

Bell Refuses To Credit Heat For TKO Win

NEW YORK (UP)—Lightweight Bobby Bell refused today to let the terrific heat have complete credit for causing Bobby Courchesne's collapse in their TV fight at St. Nicholas Arena Monday night.

"I think my body shots took their toll, too," said Bell of Youngstown, Ohio, after winning an eighth - round technical knockout over Courchesne of Holyoke, Mass. Courchesne was leading when he collapsed in his corner.

Drs. Alexander Schiff and Samuel Swetnik said it was a case of heat prostration. Dr. Schiff explained, "I estimate it was 110 degrees in mid-ring under the television lights. It was similar to the prostration of Sugar Ray Robinson in his 1952 fight with Joey Maxim."

Courchesne, who weighed 132 pounds to Bell's 131½, was floored by rights to the chin twice, once in the fifth round and once in the seventh. But he was strong in the eighth.

Sporstmen's Corner—

Teen-age Sportsmen Interest Increasing

Increasing interest of teenagers in forming their own conservation and sportsman clubs has been recognized by the Game Commission in a new leaflet, "A Suggested Program for Junior Conservation Clubs."

Available free of charge to youngsters and their adult leaders, the guide outlines reasons for forming such a club and then offers suggestions on programs and activities. These ideas are given on a monthly basis from September through May to coincide with the school year. High schools desiring to form a conservation club thus have a pattern which may be followed, although the guide strongly urges them to plan their own program.

Finally, the guide offers a model constitution for newly organized junior conservation clubs. All told, the new leaflet gives often-needed suggestions and assistance to those forming youth groups, and it should stimulate interest in forming such clubs. The results from the growing number of these special organizations, which satisfy the special needs of teen-age boys and girls who are outdoors-minded, will be citizens who are better informed on conservation and who will demand wise use of our natural resources.

Copies of "A Suggested Program for Junior Conservation Clubs" may be obtained by writing the Pennsylvania Game Commission at Harrisburg or any of its Field Division headquarters.

Frost Damage—

"In northern Potter County," says Game Protector Rozell Stidd, " a series of hard frosts during the latter part of May did damage to some producers of next winter's game food supply. Wild apples, Juneberry, cherry and beech were damaged, but the extent cannot be determined at this early date."

"Once again sections of the Northeast Division were hard hit by late frosts," says Nicholas Ruha, Land Management Assistant. "The oaks, beech, cherry, sumac, grape and other sensitive species were 'burned' in large areas. Fortunately other low-lying sections nearby were spared."

Fox 'Rescued'—

Last month Game Protector Samuel McFarland noticed fox signs near the Game Commission's wild turkey hardening pen in Berks County. He says, "I set traps in the vicinity. The second day I checked them a very large bird flew from a tree above one of my traps. The bird, a golden eagle, circled about 30 feet over my head. As I approached the trap, which held a gray fox, the powerful bird made a diving pass at the animal, with claws open. A rock I threw narrowly missed the eagle, scaring it away. Something tells me that if I had arrived only a few minutes later there would have been no fox in the trap."

A traveling salesman was Harry G. Blowe,
Who could sell ice cubes to an eskimo,
But he fell for a line slicker than his,
From a new car salesman—wow! what a whiz!

The car had style—years out of date,
The features were new—back in '48!
Harry's still smiling, the tears hardly show,
But how he wishes he could get back his dough!

Moral: Don't get "bargain-talked" into yesterday's styling and features!

Like a lot of people, Harry was looking for a "good buy" in a new car. But no car is a bargain if it's outmoded before you drive it a mile. For the same money, Harry could have stepped up to a dashing Swept-Wing Dodge—so new it actually obsoletes other cars in its field. Obsoletes their high, boxy design with the low, low look of tomorrow. Obsoletes their old-fashioned features with such advances as Torsion-Aire Ride, Push-Button TorqueFlite and Total-Contact Brakes. So don't do what Harry did—please. See your Dodge dealer today.

Methodist Teachers Attend Training Camp

A joint leadership and laboratory school for church school teachers of the Methodist Pittsburgh conference is being held at the Jumonville Training Center, near Uniontown, this week.

Church school teachers attending the laboratory school are observing and assisting especially trained instructors in a regular class room experience with boys and girls.

The faculty of the school, which is sponsored by the Pittsburgh conference, nursery — Mrs. Meredith Germer, of Harrisburg, Pa.; kindergarten — Mrs. Mary Mikeal of St. Albans, W. Va.; primary — Mrs. Martha DeLiara, of Norfolk, Va.; junior — Mrs. Bruce Middaugh, of Meadville; intermediate — Mrs. Edward Gill, of Elma, N. Y.; missionary education (junior level) — Mrs. Grace VanVoorhees, of Philadelphia.

The general board of education of the Methodist Church is conducting the northeastern jurisdiction laboratory instructors' seminar in conjunction with the laboratory school. Margie McCarty of the staff of leadership education; Nashville, Tenn. is leader of the seminar.

Two additional leadership education courses is included in the six-day program: "Trends in Christian Education" taught by the Rev. Frederick W. Hunt, executive secretary of the Conference board of education, and "Understanding Adults" by the Rev. Dr. Bruce L. Middaugh, pastor of Old Stone Church, Meadville. The Rev. Dr. A. P. Weaver, of Emory Methodist Church, Pittsburgh, is the vesper speaker.

Attending from Belle Vernon Methodist Church are Mrs. Ruth Lynn and Miss Edna McCulley.

McKeesport Youth Survives Crash

WASHINGTON (UP)—The only survivor of a Neptune patrol plane crash near Turin, Italy, was Eugene A. Forsyth, aviation machinist mate 3C., McKeesport, Pa., according to an announcement by the Navy Monday.

Nine men were killed in the crash which occurred while the patrol plane crew was searching for a missing sister plane last Sunday.

'Crowded' Store Overrun with Burglary Gangs

LONDON (UP)—The gang of robbers stealthily crept up on the store they were planning to rob.

One slipped into the shadows as a watchman to make sure the policeman did not surprise them.

A second sneaked up to the door and one began working on it with a jimmy. The third watched expectantly.

"Blimey, mates," he said as the door swung open easily. "Someone's inside."

The someone turned out to be two other robbers. Each group prepared to flee then realized the others must be rivals instead of police.

There was a hurried consultation inside the store and the two gangs decided to pool their resources and get on with the robbery.

Police caught all five robbers anyway and they were found guilty in Old Bailey of breaking into the store and stealing a safe containing 100 pounds ($80.).

Billy Graham Resumes Crusade Following Rest

NEW YORK (UP) — Billy Graham resumes his extended New York Crusade after a two-day rest today, with the prospect of seeing the two million dollar revival extended through Labor Day.

The evangelist's crusade to save New York was originally extended from a June 30 closing to July 20, and only last Friday, it was extended again through Aug. 10.

But it was learned that Graham and his sponsors, the New York Crusade Executive Committee, were so pleased with the record-breaking turnout of 100,000 persons at a Yankee Stadium rally Saturday that they are thinking of running the crusade through Labor Day.

The committee holds an option on Madison Square Garden, where Graham has preached 60 sermons, through Sept. 2. His sermon there tonight will be on "Why God seemingly Does Not Answer Certain Prayers."

Graham said that this week at the Garden "will be the hardest," for the decision to extend the crusade through Aug. 10 came so late no group reservations for the week were taken.

It was learned that Graham's sponsors are considering an alternate plan to extending the crusade in the Garden through Labor Day.

It is possible the 38-year-old North Carolinian will take a couple of weeks off after Aug. 10, then return to conduct week-long minor crusades in Paterson and Newark, N.J.

Eastern Railroads Plan for Research

NEW YORK (UP)—The Traffic Executive Association, eastern railroads, said today it will launch a comprehensive research program Aug. 1 seeking enlarged markets for rail transportation service.

E. V. Hill, chairman of the association, said the study would include traffic now moving by the various methods of transportation, and the comparative costs and rates of the several methods.

The study is aimed at ending confusion as to comparative costs and charges and the consequent "waste which is harmful to the railroads as well as to their patrons," Hill said.

Surplus Farm Exports Increase

WASHINGTON (UP)—President Eisenhower today transmitted to Congress a report showing that shipments abroad of American surplus farm products increased far beyond expectations during the first six months of the year.

Surplus commodities with an export market value of about 500 million dollars were shipped during the first six months of the year.

India stepped up its U.S. surplus wheat imports and more privately-owned American freighters became available to carry grain shipments.

A report on surplus commodity exports goes to Congress twice a year.

Claims Support for Label

WASHINGTON (UP)—Sen Wallace F. Bennett said today he has received unanimous public support for his bill to require warning labels on cigarette packages to show their "harmful" contents.

The Utah Republican told the Senate he has received more than 100 telegrams and letters since introducing the legislation last week, and "not a single one has been in opposition to it."

Bennett said he agreed with remarks by Sen. John Sherman Cooper (R-Ky.) last week that Congress is "not competent to judge the dangers of cigarettes."

However, non - smoker Bennett said, "Congress is able to weigh the opinions of those scientific and professional experts who have studied this matter, and their opinions are pretty solidly behind the American Cancer Society report" warning of the high incidence of lung cancer among heavy cigarette smokers.

'Fanny' to Close Civic Light Opera Season

The musical drama "Fanny" which racked up one of the longest runs in the history of Broadway theatre will be the final presentation of the season at Pitt Stadium July 29 through August 3.

Florence Henderson, who originated the title role in this success, and leading Metropolitan Opera baritone, John Brownlee will co-star in their first appearance at the stadium.

"Fanny" is the tale of the quay-side folk in Marseilles, written by S. N. Behrman and Joshua Logan, with a tuneful score by Harold Rome, told originally in a trio of novels by French author, Marcel Pagnol.

The success of this musical has been accounted for not only by the Harold Rome melodies but also by two sentimental elements which in mid-century America seem to be unfailing with audiences. One is the theme of one of its song-hits, "It's Never Too Late to Love," expressing the feeling of an older man named Panisse, played by Edwin Steffe, as he prepares to marry a young wife.

It was "South Pacific," in which a French planter persuaded a much younger Navy nurse to marry him, that first started the trend for a fifty-ish fellow to be the romantic lead of a show. The hit scored by "Fanny" further established this new trend which is also followed in such other Broadway hits as "Middle of the Night," "The Most Happy Fella," "Champagne Complex" and "Be Your Age."

The other sentimental element in "Fanny" that may have contributed to its popular appeal is that the heroine loves one man and weds another. The poignancy of this situation seems especially to appeal to women, either because they have feared this situation for themselvse, or have known other women who have experienced it, or are remembering some chances for marriage that they declined in favor of the marriages they chose to make, but with which they have become disenchanted.

A rich and abudent collection of Harold Rome songs embellishes the plot of "Fanny," while relating how a girl, deserted by a sweetheart who cannot resist the call of the sea, must take the bittersweet course of marrying an older man of comparative wealth who longs for a family and will accept her child as the heir he needs for his business. Also deeply affected by the sea-crazed boy's running off to be a sailor is his father, who had shoped his son would enter his business of running a tavern.

In addition to the singing and dancing ensembles, the cast of "Fanny" numbers 39 actors. Leading roles will be played by Walter Burke, Norman Roland, Edith King, Warren Brown, William Glennon, Shawnee Smith, John Reardon, Josephine Chase, and John Clavin.

The harvest fish is so named for its annual appearance at harvest time.

Cement Strike Meeting with Ike Is Denied

NEWARK, N.J. (UP)—A request by the Building Contractors Assn. of New Jersey for a personal meeting with President Eisenhower in an effort to end a nationwide cement strike was denied Monday.

Paul J. Brienza, managing director of the association, had requested the meeting between the President and a delegation of New Jersey cement distributors and building contractors.

Presidential Appointments Secretary Bernard M. Shanley told Brienza that the White House was cognizant of the seriousness of the strike, "but with so many groups affected it was impossible at this time for the President to meet with just one group."

The nationwide strike against cement producing plants by members of the United Cement, Lime and Gypsum Workers International Union is now in its third month.

BEATEN BY THUGS — Mrs. Frances Liberace Casadonte, 68, is shown in a Los Angeles hospital where she is recovering from a beating she received from two masked thugs in her son's home. Airliners Delayed By Bomb Hoaxes

MIAMI (UP) — Bomb hoaxes caused one airliner to return a few minutes after takeoff, and delayed the flight of another by two hours Monday.

An Eastern Air Lines plane bound for Tampa, Fla., with 18 passengers was ordered back to Miami International Airport eight minutes after an anonymous male telephone caller said a bomb was aboard. A search revealed no bomb, and the plane took off again half an hour later.

A short time later, a Royal Dutch Air Lines plane en route to Curacao in the West Indies was held up just as it started to taxi for its takeoff. Air line officials said the caller this time was a woman.

Rubber Workers In Agreement With Goodyear

CLEVELAND (UP)—The United Rubber Workers Union and Goodyear Tire and Rubber Co. negotiators reached agreement on a new contract Monday night, averting a strike of 24,000 workers.

Both sides agreed on a new general wage contract calling for a 15-cent hourly pay raise package for Goodyear workers in Akron, Ohio; North Chicago, Ill.; New Bedford, Mass.; Muncie, Ind.; Gadsden, Ala.; Lincoln, Neb.; Los Angeles; St. Mary's, Ohio; Topeka, Kan.; and Windsor, Vt.

The agreement, reached two hours before a midnight deadline, must be ratified by the workers. It is expected to set the wage pattern in the rubber industry this year. Other rubber companies face July 30 strike deadlines.

F. J. Carter, Goodyear vice president in charge of industrial relations, and L. S. Buckmaster, the URW's international president, agreed the new contract is "a good one."

It calls for a 14½-cents across-the-board hourly pay boost, plus a half cent for increased night shift bonus pay at six plants. The settlement boosts the average hourly wage for production workers at Goodyear plants to $2.54.

3 Memorials

In loving memory of our dear daughter and mother, Mrs. Wyona Turner Fisher, who died one year ago today, July 23, 1956.
The way was too hard, and you were too frail,
Dear Wyona, the struggle to win,
So God sent the Angel of Death to invite
You to Heaven and welcome you in
You're gone and our hearts will grieve over our loss,
But we'd never recall you to pain,
Some day we too, will be sent for, and you
Will be with us, dear Wyona, again
Sadly missed by Mother and Daughter

In loving memory of our dear husband, father and grandfather, Daniel M. Nemoseck, who died one year ago today, July 23, 1956
The rolling stream of life rolls on
And still the vacant chair
Recalls the love, the voice, the smile.
Of the one who once sat there
It is lonesome here without you,
And sad the weary way,
For life is not the same to us,
Since you were called away.
Sadly missed by Wife, Helen; Sons, Daughters-in-law and Grandchildren

Warns Against Food Intake By Americans

MACKINAC ISLAND, Mich. (UP) — If people keep eating the way they do, the average North American man may weigh 370 pounds within the next thousand years.

This glimpse at the year 2957 was given by Don R. Grimes, president of the Independent Grocers Alliance, in a speech prepared for delivery at the annual meeting of the National Macaroni Manufacturers Assn.

"If the people on the North American continent continue to increase their intake of food and show an increase in weight as they have consistently done since 1870, within the next thousand years the average woman will weigh 346 pounds and her spouse will weigh 370 pounds," Grimes said.

Grimes said the height of the average male now is 5-foot-10 and predicted the figure will jump to 6 feet in 60 years.

"In a thousand years from now, scientists tell us, the height of the average man will be 9-foot-2 if this growth continues," he said.

Grimes also had some figures on milady's waistline. He said the average increased from 24⅞ to 25 inches since 1870.

"But I'm not going to tell you what the projection on this waistline is for a thousand years from now," he said.

'Quit' If You Don't Like It!

By ROBERT KEANE

NEWARK, N. J. (UP) — So you're 30 years old and don't like your job.

"Quit."

This is the advice of Carrol M. Shanks, who gave up a career as a law professor at the age of 32.

Today he is the $250,000-a-year president of the Prudential Insurance Co.

"You've got to like what you're doing," Shanks said in an interview at his office here. "And if you don't—you're never too old to change — provided, that is, you aren't just hopping around.

Shanks himself was 10 years married, with two small children when he decided in 1931 that teaching was not for him. He moved to a Manhattan law firm but again was disappointed. Finally, in 1932, he moved across the Hudson River to Newark and found at Prudential what he sought. By 1946 he was president of the company.

Now 58, the soft-spoken president says, "Many men leave school and pick—well, what seems a 'glamorous' field. Maybe advertising. Then they find out they're not suited for it.

"Insurance, I imagine, doesn't strike too many young people as glamorous. But for many of us it was the right field. And for a few—even in this building I suppose—it wasn't. They'd be wise to switch."

How about the man who starts in the right field and wants to advance?

"I think if I had one thing to tell a man like that," Shanks said, "it would be to always take the disagreeable jobs. . .it's not that the man who avoids disagreeable work will necessarily get fired. He probably won't. But he won't advance either."

"But when an opening comes, when you need a branch manager, you look to the man you've come to depend on, the man you couldn't help but notice," Shanks said.

Shanks believes career opportunities are better today than ever.

"But if you turn the wrong way in the beginning, don't feel you have to stay that way."

"A friend of mine just changed jobs at 57. You're never too old."

Schenley Loses Another Round In Tax Battle

PITTSBURGH (UP)—Schenley Industries, Inc., lost another round in its challenge of the liquor "force-out" law today when Federal Judge John W. McIlvaine dismissed its suit to recover 117 million dollars in taxes.

Schenley sought refunds of the force-out liquor taxes in five U.S. district courts, including 39 million dollars in taxes paid here.

Last April the Supreme Court dismissed the company's suit attacking the law on procedural grounds.

Thomas E. Dewey, former New York governor and Republican presidential candidate, represented Schenley in both suits.

The force-out provision requires distillers to pay $10.50 a gallon on distilled spirits when they are removed from the warehouse. It specifies the tax must be paid in any event within eight years, after which time the liquor must either be removed from bond or destroyed.

A Schenley spokesman said Judge McIlvaine's decision would be appealed.

New Laws Regulate Property Owners

HARRISBURG (UP)—Highways Secretary Joseph J. Lawler today reminded property owners along state highways of new laws regulating improvements of tracts along rights-of-way.

Lawler said application must be made to the department's district offices for location, design and construction of driveways and approaches to business places and homes, and filling in areas adjacent to highway rights-of-way.

He said the new laws were designed to prevent blocking or damaging drainage facilities installed to protect roadways.

Walt Disney Plans For Third TV Show

By ALINE MOSBY

HOLLYWOOD (UP) — Walt Disney's two TV offerings have featured youngsters and cute animals, but this fall he'll launch a third show — with sex appeal.

Disney has been known as the man who put the ABC-TV network on the map with his "Disneyland", followed by "The Mickey Mouse Club." He's also the only movie producer who has yet to have a TV failure.

Now the unpredictable Disney will present what he hopes will be his third blockbuster on the home screens, a suave, mustached, swordtossing actor named Guy Williams.

Williams will star in a weekly series, "Zorro," recreating a role first immortalized in the movies by bounding Douglas Fairbanks Sr., and later by matinee idol Tyrone Power. The new show is taken from the classic novels and short stories about the legendary hero of Southern California's Spanish rancho days.

With Disney's record for success Groucho Marx on NBC and Bob Cummings on CBS may be in for a tough rating fight when "Zorro" is shown Thursday nights at 8 p. m., across the country, beginning Oct. 10. And 6-foot, 3-inch Williams admits he's "excited" about the prospect.

Williams was a photographer's model and TV and stage actor in New York before tackling Hollywood. Here he spent one year doing 25 "doorway bits" while under contract to Universal - International.

Finally he quit in disgust, and his agent suggested he join the hordes of actors trying for the "Zorro" lead at Disney Studio.

Disney thinks "Zorro" will appeal to grown-ups (particularly women fond of mustaches) as well as children. Williams plays a dual role. Like Fairbanks and Powers, he appears as a Spanish don, but also as a mysterious night masked rider wearing a black cape and astride a black horse, Tornado.

"The horse has no lines" Williams says gratefully.

Profile Greatest

HOLLYWOOD (UP) — Veteran actress Mary Astor, who stars Wednesday night on "Climax!" on CBS-TV, says John Barrymore was the screen's greatest as far as she's concerned — the greatest lover and the greatest wit. "Before the cameras he doubled me backward with his ardor, and behind them he doubled me forward with his jokes," she said. "I got a little lumbago and a lot of laughs."

KDKA Radio to Begin Separate FM Service

Radio Station KDKA will begin a separate fine music operation on KDKA-FM (92.9 megacycles) on Monday, Aug 5, it was announced today.

For the past 10 years, KDKA-FM has carried the same programs as KDKA-AM.

The new fine music service will be broadcast from 4 p. m. to midnight, every day of the week, with the exception of those days the station is broadcasting Pittsburgh Pirate baseball games. (KDKA) "feeds" the Pirate baseball network over its FM facility, which would make separate FM service during ball games impossible.)

As of now, KDKA-FM will duplicate KDKA-AM from 7 a. m. to 4 p. m. on non-Pirate days, and from 7 a. m. to midnight on Pirate broadcasting days.

Music to be programmed separately includes great operas, symphonies, ballets, chamber music, semi-classical and jazz compositions. Chief announcer for this new service will be Adam Lynch, who joined the AM staff earlier this month from WCPO, Cincinnati. Lynch will give news reports on the hour, in addition to playing and interpreting the fine music.

The Four Horsemen

HOLLYWOOD (UP) — Spike Jones wants four pints to make a quartet—a real pint-sized quartet. He wants jockeys Willie Shoemaker, Eddie Arcaro, Johnny Longden and George Taniguchi to sing on his TV show. They recently made a big hit at a dinner for the Jockeys' Guild, which would receive any funds earned from appearing on bandleader Jones' show

Your Health—

Keeping Comfortable During Summer Heat

By H. N. BUNDESEN, M. D.

A little common sense will help you ride out this summer's heat waves in a fairly comfortable manner.

Loose-fitting clothes, for example, will feel much better than tight-fitting garments. Since light colors reflect the sun, they help ward off the heat.

And I think you men will find that an absorbent undershirt will be cooler than no undershirt at all.

A balanced diet is just as important in the summer as any other time of the year. But during hot spells cold foods often are more appealing and appetites tend to lag.

So, whether your meals are hot or cold, make sure they include enough milk, eggs, meat, fish and cheese. Unless your doctor cautions you against it, a little extra salt is advisable. You lose salt through perspiration. And salt is important to your body's economy.

Drink plenty of water, too. If you don't, you might become dehydrated.

Don't work too hard or exercise too much during hot weather. If you do feel pooped, run cool water over your wrists and forearms. It will help refresh you.

As for bathing, most persons find that a lukewarm bath or shower is better than a cold one during warm weather. You will feel cooler and more relaxed if the water is not real cold.

While an air conditioner is fine for your home, there are other ways to keep the house cool. You will need a good night's sleep, so keep the shades drawn in your bedroom throughout the day.

After the sun has set, open the windows at both the top and the bottom. If the room has windows in two walls, open one at the bottom and the other at the top.

A fan will help, too. Point it toward the open window to blow the hot air outside.

The Spanish Main was the mainland bordering the Caribbean sea.
